EVERY HOME NEEDS A FAITHFUL COUGH AND COLD REMEDY.

When the seasons change and colds appear—when you first detect a cold after sitting next to one who has sneezed, then it is that a tried and tested remedy should be faithfully used. "I never wrote a testimonial before, but I know positively that for myself and family, Dr. King's New Discovery is the best cough remedy we have ever used and we have tried them all." 50c and $1.00

WAR SITUATION.

Bulgaria has not yet formally entered the war on the side of Germany and Austria, but it is generally understood they have cast their lot on that side and an early entrance is expected.

Greece remains neutral while leaning toward the allies. Many thousand troops have been landed at the Greek port of Saloniki to go to the aid of Serbia.

The Germans and Austrians have attacked Serbia and taken the capital, Belgrade, but are meeting with stubborn resistance by the Serbians. Very heavy fighting is expected within a few days after the Serbians have been pressed back to their strong position in the mountains.

No marked changes are reported on-any of the other battlefronts. Heavy fighting is going on daily on the western front between the French, English and Belgians on one side and the Germans on the other.

No special charge or progress is reported from the Dardanelles and it is now fully admitted that the German drive through Serbia is with the purpose of connecting with Turkey to assist in defending the Dardanelles. Such a connection will give the Germans all the copper they need as the Turks own one of the richest copper mines in the world, in Asia Minor.

The losses sustained by all parties to the war, where marked activity is shown, are claimed to be very heavy, each side minimizing its losses or remaining silent while telling of the losses to the enemy.

Later—Bulgaria attacked Serbia Monday.

PREACHER WAS LAID UP.

Rev. C. M. Knighton, Havana, Fla., writes: "For three months I suffered intense pain in the kidneys and back which at times laid me up entirely. I used 1-2 bottles of Foley Kidney Pills and all the pain disappeared. I feel as if 20 years had been added to my life." Relieves rheumatism, backache, sore muscles, stiff joints. Pomona

Sirup making is the chief occupation of the day in and around Pomona. Most of our farmers had abundant sorghum cane crops this year, and the few mills in this vicinity are kept busy day and night.

Many hands were employed at the recent filling of the silos belonging to Mrs. L. L. Wortham and Nathan Lemert. The work was completed in due season, much to the satisfaction of the owners.

Much interest was manifested by our community in the county fair, although the disagreeable weather prevented many from making entries, who would otherwise have done so. Especially was this true of the household exhibits.

A box supper for the benefit of the Claysville Methodist church was given Friday evening at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Noland. A pleasant evening was enjoyed by all present.

Mrs. Annie Hill, of Nashville, spent a week recently at her home here. Miss Fannie DeGolia was the weekend guest of Mrs. F. H. Washburn.

Mrs. F. A. Bacher rode over from Crossville Saturday to call on Pomona friends.

Fred Bacher, Jr., spent the weekend with Maxwell Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Washburn informally entertained a few friends at cards Saturday evening at Sunset Lodge. Two tables were prepared for the players, and late in the evening delicious refreshments were served. These occasions never fail to be a source of much pleasure to those present.

Last Friday night Jack Frost stole quietly up on this vicinity at least two weeks before he usually makes his appearance, killing the late feed crops and gardens, and changing the green foliage of Summer to the crimson and gold of Autumn.

HOW AN ENGINEER KEEPS WELL.

Railroad engineers are more exposed to catching cold than other workers. E. G. Dunaphant of Monette, Mo., has run a Frisco engine 25 years and all the medicine he has taken is Foley's Honey and Tar. BACHELOR HOOKED AT LAST

His Feelings May Have Been a Surprise to Spinster, but You Never Can Tell.

"Ah," said the bachelor, as he spread his legs out toward the fireplace and puffed his pipe to his heart's content, "this is what I call solid comfort. Glad your brother got married to supply it for me. Most considerate of him."

"Oh, indeed! Well, he did no such thing; so you can save your thanks. You always accuse people of your own odd motives. Bob and Nellie married for love, of course. But you don't know anything about that," retorted the spinster.

"Oh, don't I?" yawned the bachelor with a teasing glint in his eyes. "I've had a few platonic friendships in my time, if I do say it as shouldn't."

"Yes, and a lot of good it did you. There's Dolly Gibbs, the sweetest little girl you ever flirted with, and what did she do? She broke her heart waiting for you, and married that old fool Wilkins out of pique. You ought to be ashamed to boast of such things. Men are worms, anyhow!"

"That's not true about Dolly and me; besides, she never cared for me at all. She knew I was interested in someone else all the time. Women are blind, sometimes."

"They see through everything, my dear old ignoramus. And I'd like to see the woman who could interest the likes of you," added the spinster crossly.

"Did you ever look in the mirror, my dear?" asked the bachelor, as he abandoned his pipe. "You knew that I was interested in you all along, I suppose. Women always see through everything—especially bachelors."

BEST "MAKE HASTE SLOWLY"

Little Really Good and Lasting Work Has Been Accomplished Under Strain of Hurry.

"The more haste, the less speed" is an old proverb that would make a good motto for many people in these days when most of us are always in a driving hurry, remarks the Milwaukee Journal. Work that is hurried isn't often well done. The letter written in haste sometimes proves to be illegible, or, what is perhaps worse, so nearly illegible that it results in a misunderstanding that loses far more time than it would have taken to write correctly. One may be in such great haste to complete an article he is making that he slights some part of it. And just that flaw may cause a break in the machinery and result in loss of time and great waste.

Then there are the hundreds of times when undue haste doesn't involve great consequences, but simply means inferior work that must be done again some time, and perhaps cause inconvenience and loss until it is done over. For an article rightly made or a task well done serves a better purpose than something completed in haste. People who do everything hastily usually misunderstand.

Some things one may catch quickly and so deceive himself into thinking that he can do the whole thing in a minute, not even knowing the important point that has escaped him. To "make haste slowly" means to accomplish more, whatever one is doing.

Run Away From "Nerves."

No one can help feeling nervous at times in this age of rush and racket, but it is quite possible to put on the brake, as it were, and not let the nerves run away with us.

If people fret you, it is not necessary to be rude to them. Try, instead, to avoid them.

Don't read books that irritate you. Books are plentiful, therefore put away the offending volume and choose another.

If a noise at night worries you, don't let it continue to do so. Get up and see to the matter and put it right.

Don't let yourself get into the habit of being bored. It is not worth while. When you feel it coming on plunge at once into some task that will take all your time and energy. It is better to run away from certain things than to let them irritate you. Such martyrdom is usually unnecessary and bad for you all round.

How the Tomato Was Named.

Few persons know the origin of this common name. It originated in this way: The earlier experimenters with the fruit believed that it had a great effect on the spleen—that is to say, it made persons liable to crossness good-natured—gave them, so to speak, a lovely disposition, and for this reason the plant was known to the ancient Spaniards as the love apple. By the name of love apple it is still known in many English-speaking countries. The word tomato is derived from the same source, that is to say, from the original Latin word amo, to love, although we use it now as a Spanish derivative, tomato being a Spanish expression.—Meehan's Monthly.

IN LINE WITH "DE QUALITY"

Mr. Eli Brown Felt Himself Entitled, Considering His Position, to Letters After His Name.

Eli Brown, an impressive ebony figure in his long, black, clerical coat and collar—gift of the rector of St. James—had come in answer to a postcard of mine, asking him to call and whitewash my back fence.

"I've done moved, Miss Ma'y," he said, when he explained to me that he could not undertake the work that day, as a noon service at St. James' necessitated his presence at the organ bellows, "and I reckon I'll jes' leave my card so you can know whar to sen' for me when yer wants me ag'in."

With an expression of dignified gratification he unfolded a scrap of church announcement leaflet, which he had pulled out of his vest pocket and handed me a card with the words:

Eli Brown, E. O. B.,
50 Fenchurch street.

"What do these letters stand for?" I asked.

"Why, Miss Ma'y, all de quality in our congregation has letters after der names. Doctor Price he has D. D.; Doctor Simmonds has M. D., and dere's LL. D. for some of 'em, and U. S. N. for dat Yankee officer; and coase I naterally has 'em, too."

"But what do they mean?" I insisted.

"Now, Miss Ma'y, don't you know?" E. O. B.—Episcopal organ blower, dat what I is."—Harper's Magazine.

FOR SAFETY FROM LIGHTNING

Scientist Tells What to Do When One Is Caught in Thunderstorm Far From Shelter.

It is considered dangerous to be the most prominent object in a field or common during a thunder storm. Indeed, more persons are struck and killed in this way than when sheltering under trees. What, then, is a man or woman or child to do when caught in the open in a thunder storm? They may take shelter, says Sir Ray Lankester, in a wood, though not under any isolated tree nor under a long high hedgerow.

They should ask for shelter in any available house or cottage. Failing this, they may (as goats and sheep and cattle do) get under a low-lying rock-face, or into a ditch, or dry nole, or even, if the storm is close round them, lie flat on the ground. It is less dangerous to be wet through than dry, since wet clothes may, and have before now, saved a man's life, owing to the fact that they are good conductors and allow the electric current to pass away without obstruction.

Nick in an Artery Dangerous.

A "nick" in an artery is sometimes more dangerous than its complete severing; for the coats of arteries are formed of muscular tissue, which contracts, and a slight cut at once expands into a round or oval hole, through which the hemorrhage continues unless the artery be tied. When an artery is completely severed the cut tends to turn in and close the tube. In the case of a small artery this closing sometimes needs no assistance. In the case of a larger artery, the surgeon ties it at once, and thus closes it for good.

Dr. Seward Erdman reports to the New York Medical Journal two recent cases at Lincoln hospital in which hemorrhages broke out over and over again for several weeks in arteries that had only just been nicked, and that were finally healed by being tied just as if they had been severed.

The Fan in Egypt.

The fan was a royal emblem in Egypt and signified authority, napkins and repose. The fan bearers were generally persons of royal birth and were initiated into their office with elaborate ceremony. Frescoes on an ancient palace of Thebes represent fan bearers carrying a semi-circular screen attached to a long handle. The Grecian ladies preferred fans made of peacock feathers, as the peacock was the bird of Juno and symbolized splendor and luxury. As the Romans were chiefly engaged in conquests of a military nature art industries did not flourish as in times of peace.

The Fourth Kingdom.

"So, you see," said the teacher, finishing up her talk about the three kingdoms—Animal, Mineral and Vegetable—"everything we can think of belongs to one of these. Take the things in this room, for example. Your desks belong to the vegetable kingdom, your pens to the mineral kingdom, and little May (pointing to a rosy-cheeked little tot of six) here belongs to the animal kingdom." May was startled at first, then the big tears came to her eyes and she said: "I think you are mistaken, teacher, cause my muvver said as how all little children belong to the Kingdom of Heaven."

TELLS OF HIS TRIP.

What Judson Caperton Saw Between Here and Hawaii.

Honolulu, H. T., Sept. 26th, 1915.
Editor Chronicle,
Crossville, Tennessee.

Dear Sir:—Will you allow me space in your paper to say a few words about where I have been and what I have seen since leaving Crossville?

On July 13th, in company with M. F. Reed and wife, I left Crossville for Chattanooga, where I stayed for two days, taking in the historical points of that city. From there I went to Knoxville, where I enlisted on the 15th day of July, for the U. S. army. I was sent from there to Columbus, Ohio, to take the recruit or rookie drill. I arrived in Columbus on the 17th, traveling through the blue grass country of Kentucky to Cincinnati. From there I went to Columbus, arriving there on Saturday. On the following Monday I was sworn in as a soldier and given my equipment.

During my stay in Columbus I made a good record, and won a prize on good behavior, which I considered a nice bouquet for myself.

Col. Dood, the commanding officer of Columbus Barracks, is a veteran soldier and a fine old gentleman. He takes a great personal interest in all the recruits and the junior officers are all fine fellows too.

After staying in Columbus just one month, a detail for the 1st infantry, at Honolulu, was posted and I was one of the lucky twenty-five to be chosen out of about 200 recruits.

On August 20, we left for San Francisco, going by way of Toledo, O., South Bend, and Gary, Ind., to Chicago, stopping in each of these places for a short time. From Chicago we traveled over the Santa Fe railroad to Frisco, stopping at Kansas City, Topeka and Hutchinson, Kansas, and Trinidad, Colo., where we ate breakfast on the first Sunday out. From Trinidad we traveled through the Ludlow coal fields, where so much trouble occurred in 1914. Just south of Trinidad is the famous Katoun tunnel, the highest point on the Santa Fe, being 7500 feet above sea level.

Our journey then led us through the picturesque country of Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and California. We passed through the following towns and stopped a short time in each: Albuquerque and Santa Fe, New Mex.; Winslow and Flagstaff, Ariz.; Needles, Bakersfield, Fresno and Stockton, Calif., arriving in Frisco on the 25th of August.

We spent two weeks on Angel Island, where all army casualties are quarantined. While there we were in plain sight of the exposition being only a short distance out in the bay. We were in sight of San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda and several other small towns.

Mare Island is just north of Angel Island and Goat Island is southeast. This is the naval training station. Alcatraz is only three miles from Angel Island, and is where the U. S. Disciplinary Barracks are located. It is a beautiful spot, even though it be used for a prison.

On Sept. 7th, we boarded the Transport Logan for Honolulu. At 12 o'clock noon the Logan put to sea. Just off the Fair grounds was anchored the Pacific fleet, and as we crossed them every hand was playing and it made me feel a bit home sick. We passed outside the Golden Gate at one o'clock and began our journey on the mighty Pacific. The first two days out the weather was fair, but a rough sea was running, sometimes coming on deck. After this the weather was fine.

There were about 500 soldiers on board and nearly all got sea sick. As luck was in my favor, I am a fine sailor. There were 69 men in my company and the first night only 14 showed up for supper, so you can imagine what a sea sick bunch we had to contend with.

We were out of sight of land for eight days. We passed several ships, but only one got close to us and that was the incoming Transport Sherman, which we saluted.

At noon on the eighth day land was sighted ahead and as we came abreast of the land we were told it was Maui, or Ieper Island. About four o'clock we sighted Oahu, on which is the beautiful city of Honolulu. We did not get inside the bay till after eight o'clock and did not go ashore until the next morning. After taking in Honolulu, visiting the dock of the ill-fated "F-4" and other places of interest, we boarded the train for Schofield, which is 28 miles away.

If this epistle meets with the approval of the editor and readers of the Chronicle, I will again be pleased to write giving a description of the islands and the people. Also would be glad to hear from any of my friends in Crossville and Crab Orchard.

Very respectfully,
Judson Caperton,
Co. B., 1st Infantry,
Schofield Barracks,
Honolulu, H. T.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in the curative powers of Hall's Catarrh Cure that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
